US Liner Company announces a limited-time warehouse sale on aerodynamic side skirts. This first-ever liquidation event offers factory seconds at low prices.

This sale provides exceptional savings for fleet managers and maintenance and repair facilities seeking to replace damaged side skirts at prices far below OEM replacement panels. Costs are as low as $49.45 each.

Cranberry Township, PA – February 12, 2020 – US Liner Company has announced its first-ever sale of side skirt replacement panels at prices far below OEM replacements. As that nation’s leading manufacturer of glass reinforced polymer shields and panels used by many of the top OEM side skirt manufacturers, these factory seconds are structurally sound, but have small surface cosmetic irregularities that could not be sold at the OEM level.

In announcing the sale, US Liner Sales Team said, “Over time, we manufacture a number of skirt panels that cannot pass the rigorous quality standards required of our OEM customers. Our internal quality assurance team may reject panels due to minor surface imperfections or slight irregularities, but they still maintain structural strength inherent to first-quality panels.”

Because side skirts regularly suffer from minor blemishes and “bumps and bruises” during normal over-the-road use, these factory seconds offer fleet managers and maintenance and repair shops the opportunity to replace severely damaged panels with “like new” seconds at a fraction of the cost.

“We’ve stored these blemished panels in our warehouse,” The Company said, “and we decided to clear out this limited inventory to free up space and provide fleet operators with a real cost-saving opportunity.”

These genuine US Liner factory seconds are available in traditional sizes for as low as $49.95 each. Quantities are limited and these factory seconds will sell out fast. According to Jeff Meek, VP of Sales, “Fleet owners and maintenance facilities have told us they’re looking for ways to reduce repair costs, and this program will help them improve their bottom line. The trucking industry is presently suffering from challenging market conditions and profits are under pressure. We believe this factory seconds sale is an easy way to help fleet managers achieve meaningful cost reductions without sacrificing performance.”
